Fathers' Association Begins Town Canvass

Will Ascertain Sentiment in Borough on 'Boy
Problem.'

VOLUNTEERS WELCOME

The work of ascertaining the sentiment of the residents of Narberth on the so-called "boy problem" is going on under the guidance of the executives of the Fathers' Association. Since the recent meeting in Elm Hall, at which the matter was thoroughly discussed, the Borough has been divided into nine sections, with a committee of fathers assigned to each. These sub-divisions of the Borough, with the chairman of the committee for each one, are as follows:

No. 1—South side of the Pennsylvania Railroad to the center of Chestnut Avenue. W. V. Hitchinson, chairman.

No. 2—South from center of Chestnut Avenue to the Borough boundary line, including Grove Place. A. W. Burns, chairman.

No. 3—Business section of Haverford Avenue—all fronting on Haverford Avenue. William H. Fowler, chairman.

No. 4—Business houses and residences south of Windsor Avenue to the center of Iona Avenue, excluding Haverford Avenue. W. S. Deaves, chairman.

No. 5—Center of Essex Avenue.

Dr. Norwood to Speak at Overbrook Church

Rector of St. Bartholomew's,
New York, Comes Here
Next Friday.

IS BRILLIANT PREACHER

The Rev. Robert Norwood, rector of fashionable St. Bartholomew's Church, New York, will be the speaker at a meeting at the Parish House of the Memorial Church of St. Paul, Overbrook, on Friday evening, March 27. It will be for the benefit of the Welfare Committee of the Fellowship of St. Paul's, which is taking care of 114 needy people.

A musical program will also be presented and Dr. Snowden, the rector, will hold open house in the rectory for Dr. Norwood after the address.

Dr. Norwood is not only famous as a brilliant preacher of modernistic tendencies, but also as the author of several volumes of vigorous verse, comparable to Maschfield's poems of the sea.

Now a naturalized American citizen, Dr. Norwood was born in New Ross, Nova Scotia, March 27, 1874. He was educated at the University of King's College, Windsor, Nova Scotia.

DR. ROBERT NORWOOD
rector of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York City, who will return to his former parish, the Memorial Church of St. Paul, Overbrook, to make an address at the Parish House on Friday evening, March 27.

Club Play Pleases Large Audience

Dramatic Talent Revealed in Lively Farce 'The Whole
Town's Talking.'

NEXT MEETING TUESDAY

A large and enthusiastic audience gathered at Elm Hall last Friday evening to witness the performance of the lively and sparkling farce, "The Whole Town's Talking," by John Emerson and Anita Loos, presented by special permission of Longmans, Green and Company, under the capable direction of Mrs. Henry A. Frye, chairman of the Dramatic Committee of the Woman's Community Club of Narberth.

In the cast were a number of well-known and talented members of the community. Faith A. Farmer, as Mrs. Simmons, the suspicious wife of a husband who was inclined to have numerous business appointments, was extremely entertaining, while William A. Stout, as the wandering husband and the plotting father of a marriageable daughter, was interesting and very true to the type. Lucille Clark was a lively, lovely and vivacious daughter of this pair and as the girl who wanted a husband who had figured in a number of

Dr. Steckback to Speak on Native Wild Flowers

On Thursday evening, March 26, Dr. Walter Steckback, of Wayne Avenue, Narberth, instructor of botany at the University of Pennsylvania, will speak in the parlor of the Narberth Presbyterian Church on "Wild Flowers in Their Native Haunts," giving glimpses of wild flowers of interest as found in the different parts of the United States. The material for this talk has been gathered first hand by Dr. Steckback upon his journeys throughout the country. Many views of such plants will be shown, and brief descriptions given of the regions visited.

This is one of a series of instructive and entertaining evenings given under the auspices of the H. C. Gara Men's Bible Class, to which the public is invited as guests of the class.

Those who have enjoyed the preceding evenings of this series will need no urging to attend; neither will those who have heard Dr. Steckback speak upon this subject, which is his hobby as well as his chosen life work.

Sidelights on Personality of Three Borough Residents Given in 'Who's Who in Advertising'

Three Narberth residents are listed in "Who's Who in Advertising," a volume containing 5000 thumb nail sketches of advertising men, which was recently published by Harpers. They are Walter A. Fox, Anton Emil Wohler and Robert Fellows Wood.

Compiled from questionnaires sent advertising men all over the country, the book gives sidelights on a man's personality, his hobbies, interests, etc., not found in ordinary directories.

Mr. Fox's biography is as follows: home, 31 Narbrook Park, Narberth, Pa.; born 1889, Buffalo, N. Y.; education, Masten Park H. S. (Buffalo); height, 5 feet eleven; weight, 145; eyes, hazel; hair, brown; complexion, ruddy; disposition, even; married, Dorothea Gleason, 1915; children, 3 boys, 13, 12, 9; clubs, St. Davids Golf, Down Town, Goats; hobby, tinkering with tools; games, golf; books, biography; newspapers, Philadelphia Bulletin; magazines, Time, Atlantic Monthly; opinion on liquor, semi; smoke, pipe; occupation, secretary-treasurer, Fox and

'Joe' Thomas Regular on Lafayette Court Team

Stanley Thomas, familiarly known as "Joe," landed a regular berth this year on the Lafayette Varsity basketball team and played in every game. Joe starred in the Lafayette victory over Lehigh several weeks ago at Easton, when he led both teams in field goals. He also played a fast floor game. In addition to Lehigh, the team gained victories over the State Teachers' College, Albright, Ursinus, Lebanon Valley, State and Haverford.

Allen Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Cook, Rockland Road, Merion, has been playing guard on the squad. "Al" and "Joe" motored over from Easton to Bethlehem last Saturday to see Lower Merion, their Alma Mater, defeat Palmerton High School.

Young Thomas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stanley Thomas, 1210 Montgomery Avenue, Narberth.

No. 10—"Out of town" business houses doing business within the limits of the Borough. Walton M. Wentz, chairman.

These committees are augmented by members selected by the chairman, without regard to number. The task of making a complete survey of the Borough is a large one, and volunteers will be very welcome.

As was stated in "Our Town" last week, the purpose now is not to accept any money, but a record will be kept of whatever financial assistance is offered. Other memorandums will be made of the talent living in the Borough that can be drawn upon by the Fathers' Association in carrying through the enlarged program of activities among the boys which will be instituted as soon as proper facilities and a building are provided.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Boy Scouts have thrown the weight of their entire organization into the work and are planning definite assistance to carry through the work decided upon. The major move on their part will be financial assistance and for this purpose a "benefit" at the local theatre will be given next week.

The Fathers' Association is desirous of making the canvass of the Borough as thorough as possible and accomplish it as quickly as it can be done. Those interested in the work among the boys of Narberth need not wait to be approached on the subject, but should communicate with any committeeman of the several districts, or with Walton M. Wentz, president of the Fathers' Association.

Letters to Editor

From Mrs. K. (name on request) comes this timely note:

At this season when nature commences to put on its new dress, and painting up and cleaning up are the vogue, the appearance of some stores in Narberth's business section is particularly distressing. Last Sunday my pride in Narberth was rudely jolted when I walked along Haverford Avenue.

Some of the stores—and especially fruit stores—were sadly in need of a general cleaning and painting. Windows needed cleaning, and empty cases were piled up out front. One takes no pride in such business establishments, and, needless to say, one prefers to buy in stores that are clean and inviting in appearance.

It is only fair to say that I noticed several stores that are a credit to their community, so far as appearance is concerned. Among them, the Flower Shop, Cotter's Market, Horn & Hardart, the Arcadia Restaurant and Shea's Drug Store.

Let us hope that business people in this fine community of ours will take a greater collective interest in the appearance of their shopping district. Why don't we have an organization here similar to the Ardmore Chamber of Commerce, so that pressure may be brought to bear upon some business people by more progressive ones?

Mrs. W. H. K.

Lower Merion Topples Palmerton and Allentown High in State Title Series

Two Overtime Periods Necessary to Down Palmerton, 29-26;
Allentown Easier:

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND

By ROBERT McNALLY
Allentown, Pa., March 14.

Lower Merion tonight staggered through a gruelling struggle to win their first combat in the P. I. A. A. tournament, 1931 vintage. This game, played in the most beautiful high school basketball emporium in America, was a battle of sweat and blood, and, strange to say, the most aggressive team did not win.

Palmerton, the underdog, carried the battle to the foe after the first quarter and very nearly walked off the floor the victor. Lower Merion shot only three of fourteen free throws at the basket and, strange to say, two of these misses won the game for the Maroon. Johnny Pennypacker converted two of the missed one-pointers into field goals, the most important tap being the tying goal in the first overtime period. The struggle ended when John Eaton pivoted away from his guard and dribbled into the basket for the last goal of the game in the second overtime period. Lower Merion won, 29 to 26, but the Main Line five is worth a bigger margin of victory over the Lehigh Valley champions. Only an ordinary team, the boys from Palmerton were keyed to a high pitch, and what they lacked in polish they made up in aggressiveness and brains. They were out to win, and the only thing that prevented was the coolness of the Maroon team in the final overtime stanzas.

The Anderson five will have to play much better ball Tuesday night at Easton to defeat the championship team from Allentown.

Easton, Pa., March 17.

Lower Merion High took a puff or two from Paddy's pipe tonight in recognition of the fact that this is St. Patrick's Day, and with their Irish away up, they crashed right and left to tame the highly touted Allentown team, 19 to 10.

The smooth offense of the Anderson ensemble and the impregnable offense of the same outfit completely baffled the boys from the heart of the Lehigh Valley. The Maroon cyclone was never in danger of losing the combat from the time Johnny Eaton sank his second two-timer from under the basket to lead, 5 to 1. This was late in the first quarter, and though Allentown fought desperately and gamely, an observant eye could detect a sort of hopeless attitude in their efforts.

The Lafayette College gymnasium was loaned to the contestants, but it was far from adequate for the large number of fans who stormed the doors to gain admittance. The game was well under way before the last of the ticket holders finally gained the inside, only to be forced in behind the stands where they could not see the action. The secret of the Maroon victory tonight, if it can be called a secret, was the fine teamwork of the five boys. They functioned as a unit against the Canaries, with a confidence that was not in evidence against Palmerton Saturday. If the club can continue with that style of play against Mahanoy City tomorrow night they should advance to the regional finals for next week.

There is a distinct advantage in psychology favoring the up-State team in the game tomorrow in that they scouted the Lower Merion team last night and early in the season defeated the Allentown team on the latter's floor, where the game will be played.

When you buy in Narberth you promote prosperity here—and that means continuation of business people's present service and stimulation to increase that service.

JOHN PENNYPACKER,

whose two field goals as follow-up shots on missed foul tries were in large measure responsible for saving the Palmerton game for Lower Merion. A star forward on this year's basketball team, Pennypacker was Captain of the football team last fall and also is a member of the Maroon track and tennis teams. He is a member of the Senior class, is 17 years old, a member of the Hi-Y, Honor Society, and lives at 110 Ardmore Avenue, Ardmore. He is undecided about a college career.

L. M. High News

Who Should Go to College

After being introduced by Walton Forstall, of the class of '28, the students of the school listened to a very interesting talk by the dean of Lehigh University, Dr. Max McCann, during the assembly period last Friday. Dr. McCann spoke on "Who Should Go to College." In his talk he defined who should go to college by these three tests: "One should have a great deal of bookish aptitude, should have learned self-mastery, and should have developed a taste for some intellectual topic." He admitted that there were, of course, exceptions, but that one could generally judge what should be done by applying these three items to himself.

Gym Exhibition

At the High School Auditorium on Wednesday evening, the gymnasium classes and clubs presented their annual gym exhibition. Bill Anderson, famed L. M. basketball coach, supervised the boys' part, while Miss Margaret Rambo coached the girls. Indian club drills, wand drills and an exhibit of thrilling tricks on the parallel bars and the rings composed the boys' share of the evening, while apparatus work and a group of lovely dances were performed by the girl gymnasts.

Three-Day Recess

The victory over Allentown on Tuesday evening began the rejoicing of the student body. The fact that there was no school for the rest of the week was a cause for joy, second only to the basketball victory. The three-day vacation is due to the fact that each year the faculties of the various schools attend a "Schoolmen's Conference." Better luck next time, faculty!

Predicts Continued Demand for Relief

Social Agencies Will Be Pressed Next Winter, Says Pray.

SPEAKS AT CO. COUNCIL

Though business and industrial conditions will doubtless show great improvement before the end of the present year, it will be many years before the demands upon the social agencies will return to anything like their normal volume, according to Kenneth L. M. Pray, of Narberth, director of the Pennsylvania School of Social and Health Work, who spoke before the meeting of the Montgomery County Council for Social Welfare, at Norristown, on Monday afternoon.

"We must prepare, and the citizens of the community must be prepared, for another winter almost, if not quite, as hard as this one," said Mr. Pray. "It will take heroic efforts to find the resources to meet the needs, but they must be found if we are going to avoid the fearful suffering which always comes in the wake of a crisis like the present."

"There will be illness and physical deterioration from long-continued under nourishment, strain and exhaustion. There will be a certain amount of delinquency, due to irregular living, idleness, the loosening of family ties, owing to discouragement and desperation. There will be continued unemployment, especially for those least able to bear it—those without great skill, and whose ambition and habits of industry are broken down by long idleness and hopeless search for a job. There will be families broken by economic disaster and by desertion and by the irritations and frictions that come from worry, continuous crowding and lowered standards of living. We must remember that here, as in the prize ring, it is not one sharp blow, but the slow wearing down of resistance that usually scores the knockout."

"In the face of this situation, social workers have the solemn obligation to make every dollar go as far as it can, by doing the best possible job, by working together as one man to avoid duplication on the one hand or neglect on the other, and by not allowing preventive and constructive efforts to be sidetracked because of the pressure of emergency needs."

"Perhaps this emergency, sad and destructive as it is in some of its aspects, may prove a blessing in disguise. If it can lead us to more widespread understanding and more effective organization of public welfare activities, it would prevent much of the misery we have seen in the past year."

J. Bruce Byall, of Narberth, president, presided.

Athletics for All Policy in Vogue at Haverford

The interest which Haverford College undergraduates take in intramural athletics is good evidence of the success with which the Main Line institution is pursuing its policy of athletics for all.

The student body is divided into six groups, according to dormitories, and regular schedules are drawn up and followed for soccer, basketball and baseball. During the basketball season which is now drawing to a close, three and four games a week have been played while none have been cancelled due to lack of interest. More than fifty students, or slightly less than one-fifth of the undergraduate body, have taken part in these contests, and in other sports as soccer and baseball which have larger teams, a correspondingly greater number of men take part.

Besides interesting the students themselves in the various sports, the intramurals have also served to develop much material which might otherwise have passed unnoticed.

Worse Than War

One of the foremost problems confronting the American people, which also amounts to a severe indictment of our civilization, is the tremendous number of deaths resulting from automobile accidents.

During the eighteen months ending in December, 1930, a total of 50,900 persons were killed in automobile accidents, which figure exceeds the total members of the A. E. F. who were killed in action or died as the result of injuries.

The Main Line has had its share of fatalities from motor vehicle accidents along with the rest of the country. Exact figures are not available, but a conservative estimate places the number of deaths in this locality from automobile accidents at a dozen. An average of nearly two accidents a day occurred in Lower Merion Township alone during 1930, according to the police records.

What can be done to prevent this appalling waste of life? A certain amount of prevention work can be and is being done by the authorities. Stop signs at the intersections of "Thru" highways, traffic lights, "slow" signs painted on the roads, warning signs at curves, lines painted on highways, speed limits, etc., all constitute efforts on the part of State, township and borough authorities to cope with the problem.

Ultimately, however, it rests with the individual to make such accident prevention efforts effective. "Stop" signs, for example, are of no value if disregarded by motorists. Reducing the speed of motor vehicles is of no avail if careless driving still prevails.

The Pennsylvania Motor Vehicle law requires drivers to have their machines under control at all times. If this provision were obeyed by everyone operating a motor vehicle the accident problem would cure itself.

The responsibility, therefore, rests with the individual driver whether the toll of deaths shall continue to mount or whether, by the exercise of care, attention, consideration and respect for regulations, it shall decrease.

Children Please at Parent-Teacher Meeting

A large audience attended the meeting of the Parent and Teacher Association at the Narberth School on Monday evening. At this meeting the students of the schools gave an exhibition of their various talents and activities. The Little Rhythm Band of small folk from the second grade again delighted the audience with their musical selections.

The third grade, under the direction of Miss Wurst, dramatized an original story, "Making the Whole World Happy."

Other features of the program were several pleasing musical selections, "America" and "Pomola," by the school orchestra and a very successful pageant of flowers, in which Marigold became the bride of Sweet William. This was given by the pupils of the third grade, each being dressed in gay and dainty costumes representing a number of varieties of garden flowers. The pupils of the sixth grade (Mrs. Bremer's) gave an interesting lesson in geography, and the boys of the seventh grade entertained with a number of gymnastic stunts. The business meeting was held during the intermission, with the president, Mrs. Clarence Woolmington, presiding. Mrs. Woolmington, who is also corresponding secretary of the State P. T. A. Association and attended the Pennsylvania Congress in Altoona on March 11, 12 and 13, gave an interesting account of this Congress to the other members of the association and also to the teachers and parents of the children. At this State Congress, delegates were chosen for the national convention to be held in Hot Springs, Ark.,

the first of May, and Mrs. Walter E. Greenwood, president of the State P. T. A., and Mrs. George Fockler, of Johnstown, vice president, were selected. A new headquarters of the State P. T. A. has been established at the Coach and Four Inn, Coatesville, and this place has been recommended for the State meeting in September.

The next meeting of the P. T. A. of Narberth will be on April 20. This will be a covered dish supper and a birthday social. Anyone wishing more information, call Mrs. George Schroeder, Narberth 2647.

Elections to Cum Laude Society at Friends' Central Are Announced

Announcement was made Monday, at the regular school assembly of the mid-year elections to the Friends' Central School chapter of the Cum Laude Society. This society is an honorary scholarship society and in the secondary schools is comparable to the Phi Beta Kappa in the colleges. The certificates were presented by Barclay L. Jones, principal of the school and president of the local chapter, and Miss Anna B. Eisenhower, secretary of the local chapter. Those elected were:

Elizabeth Cranston Hodges, Cynwyd, who anticipates Swarthmore College; Galen Wood Ewing, Penfield, Upper Darby, who anticipates Swarthmore College; Donald C. Gutleben, West Philadelphia, who anticipates Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Edward Grant Meade, West Philadelphia, who anticipates Dartmouth College; James A. Sutton, Overbrook, who anticipates Connecticut Wesleyan College.

Music—Drama

"The Crucifixion," by Sir John Stainer, one of the most appealing of Lenten oratorios, will be sung by the full choir of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Rittenhouse Square, under the direction of Ralph Kinder, of Bala, next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Cards of admission are not required.

A very enjoyable concert was given on Wednesday of last week at Goodhart Hall, Bryn Mawr College, by the faculty of the Main Line School of Music, 107 Ardmore Avenue, Ardmore. A satisfactory amount was realized for the Unemployment Fund of the Federation of Churches.

The program had much variety, and was of a very high professional standard.

Olive Marshall gave two groups of songs, and an encore, with beautiful tone and coloratura, to the great delight of the audience.

The two trios were played with unusual ensemble, and fine artistic playing by Frederic Cook, violin; Walter Schmidt, cello, and Mr. Fletcher, clarinet.

The piano part in the Beethoven Trio was beautifully played by Anne Perley Prichard, and her group of piano solos was brilliant and finished. Christine Haskell played the piano part in the Bannern Trio with rare fancy and charm.

The trumpet solos by Mr. Lamone were effective, and sympathetically accompanied by William Tumhelston. Preceding the regular program, Adolph Vogel conducted a Toy Symphony, which not only amused the audience greatly, but gave some truly interesting musical effects. The toy instruments—tin horn, tea tray, glass dish, cuckoo, small drum, nightingale, rattle—were played with great enthusiasm by the artists taking part in the concert.

The directors of the Main Line School of Music—Florence Leonard, managing director, and Louisa Hopkins and Adolph Vogel—are to be congratulated on the faculty of the Main Line School.

Goodhart Hall was donated for the occasion by Bryn Mawr College.

Two new plays on Monday night gave the Philadelphia audiences a slightly different theatrical diet. Lenore Ulric in "Pagan Lady" pleases personally, even though the play at times seems a somewhat poor thing. Amusing, yes, and often distinctly shocking, but, taken all in all, hardly worth the evening's effort.

"Young Sinners" at the Forrest can hardly be termed a new play—since it appeared in City of Brotherly Love some time ago. It is a sophisticated comedy of the younger generation.

"Cast Up by the Sea" is the choice of the week by the Lyric company, which has been reviving old melodramas.

Two shows close tomorrow night—"Strictly Dishonorable," at the Broad, and "The Silent Witness," at the Walnut. At the former theatre, Ruth Draper will give her original character sketches for one week, and at the Walnut, "Dracula" will be revived, both starting Monday evening.

"My Maryland" is remaining at the Shubert.

Wayne Footlighters

The Wayne Footlighters are busy preparing two short plays for their monthly meetings, March 24 and 25, at 8 P. M., at the Saturday Club. These plays are of interest by contrast. One a comedy, "Stick 'Em Up," by Florence Ryerson and Colin Clements, is a hilarious bit of fun from New England. The other, by James Branch Cabell, "The Jewel Merchants," is a romance of Tuscany in the Renaissance period and calls for special costuming. There will be seasoned actors in both plays, as well as new players. There is to be unusual new scenery and costumes, and a song by Stanley Muschamp, especially written for Jane Grey in the cast of "The Jewel Merchants." Mr. Muschamp is president of the Philadelphia Music Teachers' Association. Tickets at 50 cents for all those who are not members may be obtained from Percy Clark, St. David's.

An Idyll of the Main Line: When Rees Thomas Married Martha Awbrey in 1692, in Haverford

By GEORGE MORGAN
For the Main Line Community Weeklies.

Awbrey is quite a name in our early Colonial history. If for no other reason than that William Awbrey, son of William, son of Richard, married Letitia Penn, daughter of the founder of Pennsylvania. We hear of "Letitia House," in Fairmount Park, the very substantial brick dwelling built for Letitia Penn herself and removed thither; and we see, on the older maps, "Letitia Manor," tracts of land set apart for her in the days of Penn proprietorship of these hills and valleys roundabout us.

According to George Vaux, who wrote of the Awbreys, in the Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography, Letitia's husband had a sister, Martha, who married Rees Thomas—the pioneering Welsh Quaker of our Main Line chronicles. Rees Thomas ploughed the ground where Bryn Mawr stands. Rosemont acres belonged to him.

The Awbreys date back to knightly times—to Saunders de St. Awbrey, 1066. As for William Awbrey's immediate ancestors, they were Puritans and Parliamentarians but William himself seems to have turned Quaker, like so many others in England and Wales, about the time of Cromwell and the Commonwealth. When folks today look over the wall of St. Peter's Churchyard, in the Great Valley of Chester, and see "Cromwell Pearce" on an old tombstone, they are taken back, by the local short-cut, to the period of Puritan and Quaker disturbance that resulted in the loss of so much good blood in England and a corresponding gain in America. As we say, William Awbrey turned Quaker; and so did his sister, Martha. At any rate, Martha was married to Rees Thomas, at Haverford Meeting House, 4th month, 18th, 1692; and here is what Rees and Martha promised each other: The said Rees Thomas solemnly declared: "Friends, I am standing here in the presence of God, and before you, I do take Martha Awbrey to be my wedded wife, and by God's assistance do promise to be true and loving and faithful unto her and to behave myself unto her as becomes a man to behave himself towards his wife so as to continue till death part us."

In like manner the said Martha Awbrey said: "I am here in the presence of God, and, before you, I take Rees Thomas to be my husband, and I do promise to love him and make much of him till death us part."

These words are utterances of 230 years ago. They seem as beautifully put together as the olden furniture, or as the olden timepieces and tokens; and they express deep purposes very simply. She was "to make much of him," and sure enough she did. He was "to behave himself unto her as becomes a man to behave himself towards his wife." The chronicles tell us that Rees "made much" of Martha; and that after long, long years of "behaving themselves" they passed on.

Martha had three sons—Rees, Awbrey and William. A tender letter to her father in Wales, apologizing for not having named her first son, "Awbrey," is characteristic. Awbrey, by the by, went to England and married Gulielma, only daughter of William Penn, junior.

Martha died in 1726, and Mr. Vaux tells us that a little book of verses was printed about her by S. Keimer, Philadelphia.

In this Main Line idyll, it is not to be assumed that Rees and Martha did not have their hardships. In the apologetic letter to her father alluded to, she complained that she was obliged to "lose so much in time, going to fairs and markets" in far-away Philadelphia; and, as for that very winter (1695), it was a terribly hard one—so hard "they say they never saw the like of it."

Frigid, indeed, were the blasts that swept over the snows of Lower Merion, but bright and warm were the ingle-nooks of old Bryn Mawr and Haverford and Radnor.

Give Track Schedule

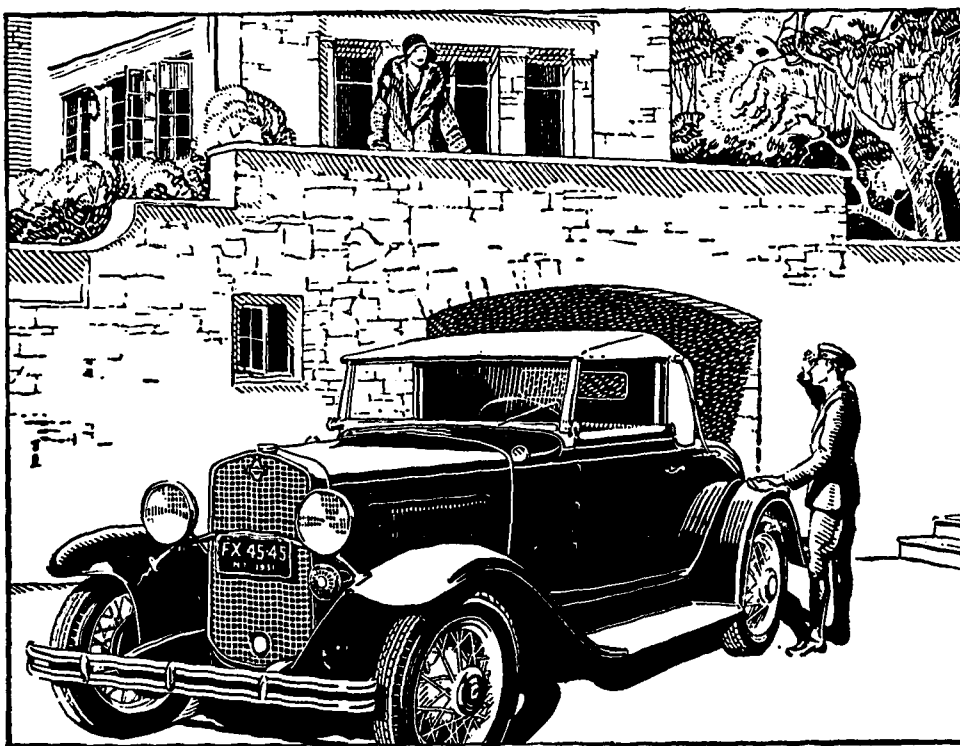

The Haverford College track schedule contains five dual meets. The Scarlet and Black will send representatives to the Penn Relays and the Middle Atlantic games which have been a feature of the Little Quakers' track activities for the last two seasons will be held on the Haverford track for the third successive year on May 22 and 23. The annual dual meet with Swarthmore will likewise take place on Walton Field as a feature of the Junior day program on May 15. The schedule follows:

Apr. 18—Johns Hopkins, away.
Apr. 25—Penn Relays, away.
Apr. 28—Delaware, home.
May 2—William and Mary, home.
May 9—Lehigh, away.
May 15—Swarthmore, home.
May 22-23—M. A. S. C. A. A., home.

"The Cat Creeps," described as one of the greatest mystery stories in screen's history, is at the Egyptian in Cynwyd this Friday and Saturday. Adapted from John Willard's play, "The Cat and the Canary," it has a cast that includes Raymond Hackett, Neil Hamilton, Lilyan Tashman, Jean Hersholt, Montagu Love and the talented Helen Twelvetees.

Greta Garbo will be seen at Cynwyd's playhouse Monday and Tuesday in "Inspiration," an original story written for her, in which she returns to the exotic type of role which made her famous in silent films. She is seen as an artist's model who is the toast of Paris. In the cast are Lewis Stone, Marjorie Rambeau and Robert Montgomery.

The Egyptian's feature next Wednesday and Thursday will be a hilariously funny comedy. It is adapted from a stage play, but you wouldn't recognize it. The title is "Only Saps Work," and the cast is chiefly Leon Errol, ankle-turning comedian of "Sally," and many other stage hits. As a kleptomaniac of a detective on a health farm, he extemporizes to his heart's content—and the public's. Also in the cast are Stuart Irwin, and Richard Arlen and Mary Brian.

Next Friday and Saturday at the Egyptian George Bancroft, Kay Francis and Clive Brook will be the all-star cast in "Scandal Sheet," which is regarded by some critics as Bancroft's best picture.

Narberth Theatre Notes

Sure to be enjoyed by the entire family is "Tom Sawyer," talking picture version of Mark Twain's novel, which is playing at the Narberth Theatre this week-end. Jackie Coogan, Mitzi Green and Jackie Searl give splendid characterizations.

"The Bat Whispers," playing at Narberth next Monday and Tuesday, is a mystery thriller with quite a bit of comedy, in which are featured Chester Morris and Una Merkel. A Slim Summerville comedy is on the accompanying program, which will be shown Monday and Tuesday at matinees in addition to the evening performances.

Ronald Colman has another of his pleasing roles, aided by Loretta Young, in "The Devil to Pay," which is coming to Narberth next Wednesday and Thursday.

Listed by the Narberth Theatre as coming soon are comedians Wheeler and Woolsey in "Half Shot at Sunrise," glamorous "Viennese Nights" and Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor in the dramatic "The Man Who Came Back."

Narberth's Favorite RECIPES

Here is a novel and delicious menu:

Green Soup

Ham Loaf Mushrooms

Au Gatin Potatoes, Peasant Style
Lima Beans, Neufchatel Style
Rice Crown with Apricots Coffee

The dishes in the above menu are French recipes, of which we are giving you a few this week. If you would care for the others, write to Mrs. Roberts of "Our Town" so that we may give you more of these in our column.

Green Soup

2 bunches of watercress.
2 diced potatoes.
2 hard-cooked egg yolks.
2 tablespoons of butter.

Croutons.

Wash and cook cress until almost done, then add the potatoes and cook until soft. Press through sieve and add the puree to the water in which it was cooked. Brown the bread slightly in one tablespoon of butter and cut into small cubes. Add the minced egg yolks and the remaining tablespoon of butter to the soup, season to taste, add croutons. A little onion juice may be added if so desired.

Ham Loaf

2 tablespoons of flour.
2 cups milk.
3 eggs.

Salt and pepper.

Cook ham and, when done, chop it fine. Mix the flour with the milk and cook for a few minutes, then add the ham, cheese and the egg yolks slightly beaten and finally the stiffly beaten egg whites. Season with salt and pepper, and pour into mold, set the mold in a pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven until firm. This may be served with or without white sauce.

A delicious accompaniment of fried ham which is recommended by one of the borough residents is that of pineapple slices dipped in egg and cracker crumbs and fried until thoroughly done in the ham fat. When serving place the pineapple slices around the slice of ham on platter and serve.

Lima Beans, Neufchatel Style

2 cups of green lima beans or one cup of dried lima beans, soaked in water over night.

1 teaspoonful of salt.

2 egg yolks.

Cook beans in boiling salted water until almost tender. Drain, remove skins and return to saucepan. Add fat, salt and milk and finish cooking. Just before serving, add slightly beaten egg yolks, diluted with a little milk.

'TIME OUT'

By TOMMY MACKLIN

Two thousand and sixty-three goggle-eyed fans. Numerous basketball players with coaches. Two necessary evils in referee pants. Gum-chewing reporters, or who would be. Whoopee from a couple of uniformed bands. Timers with a gun that wouldn't bark. Much excitement.

Yep, you're right. Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association tournament, class of '31.

Johnny Pennypacker sinks the first point of the tournament with a nice pivot under the basket.

Over fifteen hundred townsmen from Palmerton on hand to cheer their scrappy, fighting team.

THEY deserve cheers. What a bunch of aggressive gogetters.

Failure on the part of Captain Itch Turner to convert two shots at the foul line enables Lower Merion to win the game. John Pennypacker pulled his specialty to tap the two misses into the basket for twin pointers. The last one tied the count in the first overtime period with but thirty seconds to play. What a break.

Roy Williams drops in the winning point in the final extra three-minute period on a foul. John Eaton follows with a nice pivot and dribble for two extra and useless points.

Williams is the only letterman to return next season.

The Maroon team will have to play better ball than this against Allentown Tuesday at Easton to win against the Canaries.

Allentown High's Little Palestra is a perfect gem, also gym.

Glass backboards are a nuisance, but the team seems to be getting the idea now.

Here we are at Easton. House is wearing a headgear. Probably he thinks he won't be seen otherwise.

Jim Davis, unofficial timer, has used up five packs of gum already and the game is just starting.

It was nice to see the members of the club walk up to Coach Anderson before the game and shake his hand and tell him they would win this game especially for him. You know, Lafayette is "Andy's" college and Easton his own home town.

With the score 11 to 4 at half time, you would have been convinced of the outcome if you could have heard the team leave the dressing room for the beginning of the second half. Determination to the nth degree was written all over the faces of the Maroon players, and the way they talked to each other completely thrilled me. What a wonderful spirit.

Johnny Eaton was as busy as the King's Prime Minister all during the contest. He snapped out of his lethargy and clicked like his old self to-night.

His second and third field goals were classics. They were marvels. Perfect co-ordination of two very difficult shots while covered by two Allentown men under the basket. Eaton is at his best when pressed. His team spirit is fine, and he is a distinct credit to the team.

WELL, the whole team played wonderfully up here tonight. It's no use to go into details, for most of you were there to see for yourselves. But for the few parents back home (if you read our column) let me say that the whole thing was a credit to Lower Merion and the boys played as you would want them to play.

The Palmerton team was on hand to root for Lower Merion and they visited the dressing room after the game praising the fine work of the boys.

Backgammon Fans May Seek Rules at Library

Whether to play a hit game according to American rules, or with the English to double and treble on a gammon or backgammon, is a common subject for discussion these days among persons who follow the latest tendencies in evening amusements. As Carey Ford says, whatever one would like to do, it really is impossible to find many variations in a game which has remained unchanged since the days of "Ur of the Chaldees."

Every one who recalls the inside of the old checker board, for so many years, perhaps, reposing in the attic, will be glad to remove it from its seclusion and to put it to use either as a parlor decoration, or as a more enjoyable pastime in playing a running game.

Those who have not yet found an older member of the family who recalls the rules of the game, or a younger neighbor who has recently learned, may apply to the library for instructions. Foster's Complete Hoyle, located on the shelves among the seven hundreds, much to the amazement of those who have consulted it incredulously, contains the set ups, the rules of the game, with all the recognized moves for the opening throws.

JAMES (ITCH) TURNER

Captain of the Lower Merion basketball team, which opened its drive for the State title successfully Saturday night against Palmerton at Allentown. Turner, who lives on Summit Grove Avenue, Bryn Mawr, is 18, president of the Student Council, a member of the Hi-Y, Honor Society, and is also a member of the football, track and tennis teams. He expects to attend Princeton.

Upstaters are banking heavily on the Mahanoy City team, confident that the aggressive play of the big coal heavers will upset the Main Line outfit. They are conversant with the Maroon style of play and it will be a question of gameness and accurate shooting.

This column is not confident of a Lower Merion victory.

Montgomery School Notes

Francis J. Quirk, director of the Art Department at Montgomery School, has recently been awarded first prize among the Junior exhibitors of the Providence (R. I.) Art Club exhibition. The canvas which won this distinction was a portrait of Scott Adams, Jr. Mr. Quirk also exhibited two pencil sketches, one of Nelson C. Huber, Jr., and the other of John Adams Fox. Mr. Quirk is now lecturing at Montgomery School on the Fine Arts and conducts trips to the museum of Philadelphia as supplementary to the work done in his regular courses.

Mr. Floyd H. Neff, head of the Science Department at Montgomery School, recently conducted a large group of students from the school through the Bethlehem Steel Works at Bethlehem. On this trip opportunity was afforded to the students of chemistry and physics for direct observation of the industrial aspects of these subjects. Visits to various factories and industrial centres occur at frequent periods during the school year under the leadership of Mr. Neff.

The school's spring recess will begin on Friday, March 27, and extend to April 7. The closing event of the present term will be a presentation of A. A. Milne's "Mr. Pim Passes By" by the Montgomery School Dramatic Association. The play will be followed by the regular spring dance held at the school. William Payne has the management of the play in his hands. Both play and dance will take place in the gymnasium on the evening of March 27.

The current issue of "The Workshop Story Book," the weekly magazine made up by the students of the sixth class, contains stories and articles by A. Degrauw Warnock, J. Corbit Davis, Gilbert M. Montgomery, Kenneth E. Ervin, Jr., Abbott Mead and John L. Pfeffer. John S. Harrison is editor of the magazine.

Baseball Practice Under Way at Montgomery School

Baseball practice is being held regularly at Montgomery School. A large squad has reported for work, and Head Coach Wales feels that there is plenty of material for an outstanding team this season. As yet the ground is not dry enough for extensive practice, and so much of the work is concentrated upon the simpler aspects of the sport. Within a few days now several diamonds will be laid out upon the large athletic field of the school, and Junior squads will be organized.

Those assisting Mr. Wales in baseball this spring are: Messrs. Milford, Neff, Adams and Fox. The squads will be somewhat enlarged at the close of the boxing season, and at that time C. T. Arnold, athletic director, who is now in charge of boxing, will be available for varsity coaching along with Mr. Wales.

Musicales will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Committee at the Merion Cricket Club, Haverford, for the members of the club and their families tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and on Saturday, March 28. The Mozart String Quartet (Grisha Monasevitch, first violin; Manuel Roth, second violin; Amedee Vergnaud, viola; Emmett R. Sargeant, violoncello, assisted by Muriel Bayard Hodge, pianist) will play tomorrow. On the twenty-eighth the artists will be Dorothy Framton Polk, violinist, and Muriel Bayard Hodge, pianist.

Your Angel Food Cake is Always a Success when baked in an ELECTRIC RANGE

Angel Food Cake RECIPE

- 1 cup sifted cake flour
- 1 cup egg whites
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 1/2 cups sifted granulated sugar
- 3/4 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract

SNOWY, moist, fit for the angels, that's the way angel food cake comes from an electric oven every time you bake it. There are no air currents in an electric oven. This keeps a cake from getting dry. It makes a moister cake . . . more deliciously tender . . . and one, of course, that will keep fresh longer. Then . . . there's no such thing as luck one day and failure the next. Whether you bake, broil, roast or fry . . . the exact time and temperature controls of an electric range enable you to be an expert cook.

EASY TO OWN

NEVER before has it been possible to secure an electric range at so low a price! In addition, the down payment and monthly payments are so modest that it is easy, indeed, for almost any family to enjoy the marvelous advantages of electric cooking. There's an allowance as well for your old range. You are most cordially invited to come in and inspect our big display of the new electric ranges (five famous makes) without obligation!

Electric Cooking costs little, if any, more than any other type of cooking with our very low Third Step Rate of 3 cents a kilowatt-hour!

love affairs portrayed her part vividly. Arthur L. Cooke as Chester Binney, Simmons' partner and the future husband of Ethel selected by her father, was amusingly dumb in paying compliments and making love to the woman of his heart. Mr. Binney as the hero of a love affair with the movie actress, Letty Lythe, as portrayed by Mr. Cooke, caused a great deal of amusement and merriment in the predicaments in which he became involved. Frank S. Follmer, as Roger Shields, a man of the world, and a rival of Binney's for Ethel's hand, was a finished and suave villain. Jeanette E. G. Moore, as Letty Lythe, the movie actress, was particularly entrancing and well suited to the part, while W. Russell Green as the fiery and jealous fiance of Letty, was remarkable. Perhaps the hit of the show was when Evelyn M. Shaw, as Sadie Bloom, the tough dancing teacher, appeared on the stage in an outlandish sweater suit which in every way helped to characterize her part, and who, as she said her lines, was greeted with shouts of laughter. Virginia Burgstresser, as Annie, the maid, also received much applause as well as James F. Sherron, Jr., who was the taxi driver, and also Ruth Haws Nash and Anna Goodwin, as the flapper friends of Ethel. Every one went home with the feeling that the club had offered a gay and merry entertainment.

Others who contributed to the success of the affair were the committee of the Stage Properties and Costumes on which were Austin Collier and Jeanette E. G. Moore. Mrs. V. O. Krauskop acted as prompter. The locale for the play was laid in the living room of the Simmons home in Sandusky, Ohio, and was attractively set with furniture and hangings. The walls of this set were especially papered for the performance by George A. Witte. The music was by Ebba Sjoholm Griest. Harry Holler printed the program and tickets.

The club held a very successful luncheon and card party at Elm Hall on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Joseph

H. Miller was the chairman.

On Tuesday, March 24, at 2:30 P. M. in Elm Hall Mrs. Hope Le Bar Roberts will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the club. Her topic will be India, England and the British Commonwealth of Nations. Mrs. W. C. Newman and Mrs. J. A. Hongler will be at the tea table.

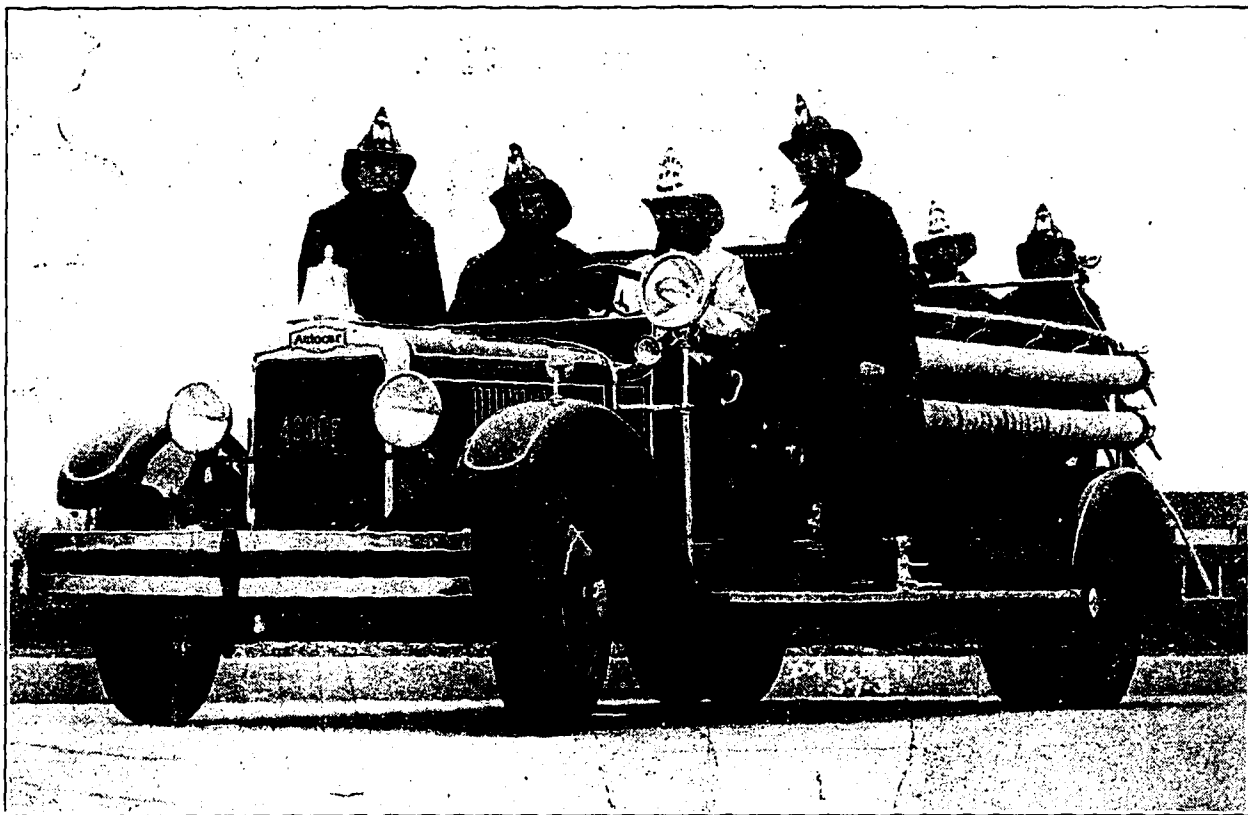

On March 26, at 10:30 A. M., there will be a meeting of the Literature Class in Elm Hall.

WHO'S WHO in the Lower Merion Police Force

Officer Kelly Served in France During the War

By ROBERT M. CAMERON

If a German shell that landed within fifteen feet of Joseph Kelly during the war had not proved to be a "dud" he would "be over there yet," as he put it instead of pacing a beat in Haverford.

Officer Kelly was born in County Tyrone, north Ireland, on September 10, 1891. He came to this country in 1912, having five brothers here.

Enlisting in the army in May, 1917, Kelly went to Camp Meade for training. His stay there was brief as he sailed for France on July 4 as a member of Company C, 314th Infantry, in the 79th Division.

He saw action in the Meuse-Argonne offensive and was in the front line continuously from September 7, 1918, until the signing of the Armistice on November 11.

After the war he returned to his previous position as valet to W. Plunket Stewart, former Haverford resident, who now lives in Ithan. In the course of his work with Mr. Stewart, which covered a period of seven years, Kelly went abroad three times after the war, traveling in England and France, and visiting that principality, Monaco, famous for its Monte Carlo.

Kelly joined the Lower Merion Police force on March 8, 1926. He was assigned to duty in Narberth for one year and for the past four years has been on the Haverford beat.

He is married and lives at 235 Grandview Road, Ardmore. Kelly is a member of the Bullock-Sanderson Post.

Haverford College Baseball Schedule Is Announced

The Haverford College baseball schedule, released yesterday, contains three teams which have been strangers to the Scarlet and Black nine for several years. Franklin and Marshall, Delaware and Muhlenberg are the newcomers. The F. and M. and Muhlenberg tossers will be met at Lancaster, while Delaware will be encountered on the local diamond. As usual for the past few years the season opens with Penn at Franklin Field on March 28, while the annual series with Swarthmore will take place on May 9 and 15. The complete schedule follows:

Mar. 28—Penn, away.
Apr. 8—Franklin & Marshall, away.
Apr. 11—Osteopathy, home.
Apr. 18—Army, home.
Apr. 25—Stevens, home.
Apr. 29—Delaware, home.
May 2—Muhlenberg, away.
May 9—Swarthmore, away.
May 13—Moravian, away.
May 15—Swarthmore, home.
June 6—Ursinus, home.

north of Ireland, on September 17, 1903, Crookes was the youngest in a family of eleven. Too youthful to enlist during the war, Joe drilled in the Boys' Brigade, an organization of boys from 12 to 16, roughly comparable to the Boy Scouts, in which he was a corporal.

He and his family came to this country after the war, having several relatives here and friends on the Main Line. Joe was 16 at the time. One brother was in the United States service.

After working for the Autocar Company some time, Crookes received his appointment as a member of the Lower Merion police force on December 1, 1926.

For two years he was assigned to the North Ardmore beat and a little less than a year to Bryn Mawr. Since the summer of 1929 he has been a member of the motor-cycle squad. In this job he cruises up and down Lancaster Pike from Rosemont to City Line, and woe be to the speeders who try to elude him, since his four-

One time Joe found that all the speed of his motor-cycle was of no avail when it came to cross-country work. He was chasing a colored man who had held up a pool room with a shotgun. The man, escaping in a car, saw that a motor-cycle patrolman was gaining on him, left his machine at Holland Avenue, Ardmore, and began running. Joe likewise left his motor-cycle and gave chase, the man's white shirt acting as a guide. Two shots failed to make the man stop, but Joe, who played on the Autocar soccer team and whose wind was a little better, overhauled him at Haverford College.

Joe Crookes it was whose singing of "Keep on the Sunnyside" around the station house made the phrase the slogan of Sergeant Wentz's squad. In fact, "Sunnyside" has become almost an alias for Crookes.

Among other accomplishments, Joe claims the checker championship of the force. In the roll call room at the station house there is a checker table which has its good share of devotees, as the men assemble there at shift-changing times. Although his supremacy is good-naturedly disputed at times, Joe meets all comers, regardless of reputation, and usually comes out on top.

Crookes was married six years ago to Miss Gladys Weiss, of Narberth. They have two boys, Joe, 4, and Jimmie, 1, and live on Ardmore Road, Gladwyne. His mother resides in Narberth.

Timely Notes for the Main Line Garden Lover

Swimming Pool in Garden of Mr. Walter A. Bailey

Fifty Years On One Estate Is Record of Wynnewood Gardner, Larry Keohane

Sixty-five may be the retiring age in some lines of work, but age means nothing at all to Larry Keohane, 72 years young, who is head gardener on the estate of Mrs. Edward Dale Toland, "Wynnewood Mansions," in Wynnewood.

A record of fifty years on one place is an unusual one in this country, but April 3 will mark the beginning of Larry's fiftieth year on this estate, a round half century.

For Larry first took up his duties there in 1882 when Colonel Owen Jones was the owner of the property comprising 250 acres and which included within its limits practically all of Wynnewood, and the fringes of Ardmore on the west and Narberth on the east.

Born in Ballintemple, County Cork, Ireland, in 1852, Larry came to this country when a youth of 18.

Today he is as active of body and alert of mind as many men a score or more years younger. The green houses, gardens, conservatory, trees, shrubs and lawns on the place still get his vigilant and watchful care. In fact, tree climbing is not too strenuous a pastime for Mr. Keohane when a dead limb has to be removed from one of his favorite trees.

"Wynnewood Mansions" has been a gentleman's estate for over 200 years. The fine old house, which has seen many changes come about on the Main Line, has been remodeled and added to from time to time. Today, surrounded by many old trees and eight acres of land, with a cow which is allowed to graze at pasture and a horse and pony, it retains the atmosphere of the country in the midst of the modern suburban community. To one neighbor the cow provides a touch of peacefulness in the landscape that could not be had by any other means.

When Mr. Keohane first came there the nearest neighbors on the east were Mrs. Furcy, who owned a dairy farm at Elm station, the old name for Narberth, and the Prices, whose house or what is now Montgomery Avenue, at Meeting House Lane, Narberth.

The names of some of the present streets in Wynnewood are thought to have been derived from former owners of Wynnewood mansions and their relatives. Aubrey Jones, the son of the original owner, is believed to have given his name to Aubrey Road which Wistar Road, in like manner, named for the Wistars, who were related to the Jones family.

The Lawn

The lawn has the same relation to the grounds as a whole as a rug or carpet has to the main room in the home. In purchasing a rug, or floor covering, it is usually conceded that it is the foundation for beauty for the whole room. Likewise, in developing a lawn, it should be considered the foundation of beauty for the whole outdoors beauty area around the house. The house is the basic factor in the development of correct landscape. Regardless of how much money is spent, or how beautiful or vigorous the specimen plants in the landscape planting may be, one cannot have a perfect landscape picture without a perfect lawn.

In the development of a lawn, the greatest factor to be considered is its water-absorbing ability. The moisture absorbed by the lawn comes back to the roots laden with plant food, and promotes continual healthy and vigorous growth. Next in importance, or perhaps of equal importance, is to create a condition that encourages deep root development. Deep roots have a larger area over which to feed, and by encouraging deep root development they do not become so crowded, and consequently there is less competition between individual plants for moisture and plant food present.

The perfect lawn surface is absolutely uniform. There should be no humps or high places that the wind may strike with greater force and cause them to dry out quickly, thus making a barren spot in the lawn. While blue grass and red top have

Mr. Walter A. Bailey, of Merion Has Lovely Garden of Rare Charm

The charm of a garden cannot be equalled—that is in our humble estimation. And a lovely garden is that of Mr. Walter A. Bailey, of "High Point," Merion. Terraced effects give an old-world atmosphere, shadows and high lights flicker and play; gay posies strain toward the sun and sway in the gentle breezes; a velvety lawn stretches away to a very modern swimming pool and behind it a row of Lombardy poplars encloses all and makes terraces, flowers, pool and lawn a delicate whole.

A sweeping circular drive leads up to the Colonial entrance, a central hall through the house has a door which opens onto the uncovered terrace at the back of the house. Once there you leave all the traffic of Old Lancaster Road behind. You get your first glimpse of what is in store for you when you see the boxes containing pink and purple petunias which line the open end walls of the uncovered terrace. Here is gay iron furniture. On the plastered end wall, in the center, is a quaint eagle plaque, and iron brackets hold pots of petunias and ivy, trailing its graceful lengths.

At the left is a covered terrace, or porch, roofed and protected from the sun and wind and rain by side walls, the arched openings with the gay awnings add to the architectural beauty and heighten the effect of old-world picturesqueness. An old iron gate swings slightly ajar and lends distinction to this garden room; great boxes of begonias and ferns adorn the openings at the sides and at the end which looks directly down over the terrace, the lawn and the pool. Black furniture with plain orange cushions make this the most charming spot you could imagine. An interesting and quaint touch is an old bell hanging from a bracket which was one of the old farm bells which were used to call men of the family from the fields when Indians made forays or—more prosaic—when dinner was ready! This bell now summons the members of the family when they are needed indoors. On the house wall are two of the eagle insurance plates made of iron which are extremely rare.

From the uncovered terrace you go down a few steps to the second terrace. Here evergreens are banked against the walls. Aggeratum and marigolds are most stunningly massed to make this terrace resplendent with blooms. In the spring, tulips reign until their course is run.

Steps again! At each side of this level a flight leads down to a short terrace and centre flight. As you go down them you have an enchanting view. Blossoms nod graciously just above your head, great stone jars are filled with flowers, rich, dark evergreens loom in the background. You stop and think, for surely the scene brings back fragrant memories. It is like a spot you saw and remembered at that little place near Mentone; or maybe it was that gem of garden in Capri, of which you got just a glimpse. You know it reminds you of one of those, and you pause for a moment, head lifted, to drink in its beauty. As you bring yourself back to the present and the garden before you, you walk down a wide slope of lawn. At the left are many varieties of shrubs grouped against the iron railing and adding to the compactness and the privacy of the garden.

Returning on the main terrace you see a beautiful tree with its huge limbs and fluttering leaves casting intriguing shadows on the smooth turf beneath. This is a ginkgo tree and we understand it is the finest specimen in America. The ginkgo is often called the maiden hair tree in America; comes from Japan, and the name is derived from two Chinese words, "Yin" and "Hing" which, together, mean silver apricot.

New Bryn Mawr Apartment Ready in July

In architect's sketch of "The Mermont," the large apartment house in course of construction at Merion and Montgomery Avenues, Bryn Mawr. The structure, which will be ready for occupancy July 1, is six stories high, of fireproof construction throughout, and will contain sixty-three apartments, running in size from one room and bath to seven rooms and bath.

Other features of "The Mermont" will be four elevators, cross ventilation in all apartments, incinerators, General Electric refrigerators. Owned and operated by the Colonial Apartments, Inc., it was designed by Charles S. Schaef, of Philadelphia. The Shubin Building Company, of Philadelphia, are the contractors for the operation, whose cost is estimated at $300,000.

By ROBERT J. EDGAR

The lawn should be rolled with a heavy roller after heavy frosts are over and before new growth starts. Late March or early April is the time.

April is the season to grub-proof lawns, killing the grubs of Japanese beetle and saving the trouble and expense of making a new lawn. The grubs start to feed on grass roots when the ground starts to warm up, but they can be controlled by spreading a mixture of six pounds of arsenate of lead powder and one bushel of dry sand over each one thousand square feet of surface. For fertilizing a grub-proofed lawn it is better to use pulverized sheep manure or cotton seed meal, but not bone meal or any chemical fertilizers containing lime in any form.

Little seedling plants should not be allowed to grow in the seed row after they have developed two or three sets of leaves. They need space in which to stretch their roots and air space to develop into shapely, stocky plants. Some gardeners use florists' flats, or shallow boxes, spacing the plants three inches apart; others use one-inch earthen pots, setting these in flats of soil or peat moss. Small earthen pots about two inches in diameter may be used or paper pots of the same size. The soil may be heavier than the seed soil—two parts garden soil, one of humus and one of sand—a pinch of fertilizer may also be mixed in. The little plants should be shaded for a day after transplanting and then given all the sun available. The soil must be kept moist constantly. Frost, of course, is deadly. If tender plants are transferred to a hot bed or cold frame the glass should be covered with a frost-proof mat at night and opened during the sunny hours to ventilate and prevent steaming.

The cold frame is a most convenient device for gardeners, not only for getting an early start in spring, but for raising perennials, biennials and rock garden plants from seed during summer and fall. For early spring the glass cover is required, but for summer, fall and winter use, for hardy subjects, lath covers are all that is necessary. Glass sash comes in standard section of three feet wide and six feet long so that the frame, or base, should be built to these dimensions. Small frames can be built for lath covers. Those that measure thirty-six inches wide and thirty inches long are the most convenient size to reach over.

Maple trees are better trimmed after the leaves have unfolded as they are inclined to bleed, or leak sap. This does not harm the tree particularly, but makes it most inconvenient to paint the exposed wood. Old cuts, or wounds where wood without bark is exposed to air and moisture should be painted with tree paint at least once a year. These wounds, when left to dry out, will decay and form cavities in branches and trunks. The cavities must be filled or the tree will continue to decay and eventually be either a total loss or an expensive case of neglect. In caring for trees a stitch in time save ninety and nine.

Clothing Needed by Bryn Mawr Community House

Clothing is still needed by the Bryn Mawr Community House for distribution among needy families. The present needs are as follows: for three boys, ages 15, 13, 11: underwear, nightwear, pants, blouses, shoes. Two boys, 7 and 6: coats, sweaters, pants, blouses, suits, underwear, stockings. For two boys, 3 and 2: suits, coats, underwear, stockings. For one girl, age 3: dresses, shoes (size 7). For one boy, age 1 year: rompers, stockings. In addition, bed clothing, sheets, blankets, pillow cases for a baby's bed is needed. If unable to deliver articles to the Bryn Mawr Community House, telephone Ardmore 258-M, and they will be called for.

International Relations Meeting

The International Relations Committee of the Women's Community Club of Narberth will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. W. C. Newman, 439 Anthwyn Road, on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

THE FIRESIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Slaw, Jr., of 321 Meeting House Lane, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son on March 16.

Mrs. Slaw was formerly Miss Ruth Schaeffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Schaeffer.

Rush Chapter, D. A. R., Hear Talk on National Defense

The Benjamin Rush Chapter of N. S. D. A. R. held a meeting at the home of the Regent, Mrs. Hugh Glen Martin, 207 Wayne Avenue, Narberth, on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Dorothy Evans Copp, national chairman of defense, was the speaker, and her subject was "National Defense," in which she told of the influence of Sovietism in this country at the present time. Tea was served.

CHARLES B. YOUNG

Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the Oliver Bair Building, 1820 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, for Charles B. Young, of 503 Beechwood Lane, who died on Monday. Interment was at Westminster Cemetery. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Burnham Young.

J. B. Priestly, who caused quite a furore by telling Americans what he didn't like about them, has sort of dropped out of the news. But it is a good thing he visited us or we might never have known that he has opinions on the United States and is an English novelist.

Employees Help Unemployed Through M. L. Federation

Realizing that there are many, many persons unemployed along the Main Line through no fault of their own and for the first time in their lives are unable to provide food, heat and shelter for their children, the employees of the Philadelphia Electric Company and of the Supplee-Wills-Jones Company have made definite contributions from their salaries to the Federation of Churches for the relief of their former co-workers in the community. The employees on the estates of Mrs. Samuel T. Bodine, of Villanova; of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Howe, of Rosemont, and of Mr. W. Hinkle Smith, of Bryn Mawr, too, have come forward with generous contributions. It is hoped that the householders of other estates will follow the example of these. In many instances the employers, realizing that these persons were making a real sacrifice in contributing, have matched the donation, although they had already contributed to the organization.

The Federation of Churches reports that the need for financial relief along the Main Line continues and is really even greater than in the winter. Savings and credit are diminishing as the period of unemployment lengthens. The snowy, wintery weather of the past week prevented the opening of work for gardeners and laborers on lawns as yet. Householders are urged to begin this work as soon as possible so as to relieve not only the financial strain, but the mental strain of those who are desirous of earning their livelihood.
